Director's Convocation Address

Hon'ble Vice-President and our Chief Guest for the 67th Convocation, Shri Bhairon Singh Shekhawat, Mr. R.K. Krishna Kumar and Members of the Governing Board; Distinguished Guests, Alumni, Students, Staff and Faculty:

I extend all of you a very warm welcome to the 67th Annual Convocation of the Tata Institute of Social Sciences (TISS). The past year has been a year of change for TISS, one that has seen us acknowledge the importance of going beyond being an institution of excellence to an institution whose excellence makes a decisive difference in achieving human rights and justice for all.

The launch of new M.A. programmes, a new M.Phil.–Ph.D. programme, and the Diploma programmes in Andaman & Nicobar Islands and in Ladakh have been the academic highpoints of the last year. In the coming academic year we look forward to the launch of three new Master's programmes in Disaster Management; Globalisation and Labour; and Social Entrepreneurship, and a host of short-term academic and training programmes in areas such as Human Development and Accountability, Media and Cultural Studies, Psychosocial Care in Disasters, and Financial Management.

The TISS, with support from International Centre for Integrated Mountain Development (ICIMOD) and International Development Research Centre (IDRC) is playing a key facilitating role in developing the first ever inter-university Master's Programme in Sustainable Mountain Development bringing together universities from across the Greater Himalayan region, including Afghanistan, Pakistan, India, Nepal and China.

In our pursuit of making TISS an institution whose excellence contributes to national development, we convened the first-ever meeting of Vice-Chancellors from Jharkhand, Chhattisgarh and Orissa to better understand and respond to the substantial challenges of development-related conflicts in this region. Similarly, a scoping mission to identify the role that TISS can play in the North-Eastern region of India has also been launched with the deputing of a full-time faculty member to Guwahati.

As an institution committed to the democratisation of all aspects of the polity, TISS has been proud to commit itself to two key initiatives in this regard over the last year. The first involves establishing a State Resource Network on Micro-Planning with support from the UNICEF to support and institutionalise peoples planning across the Maharashtra. The Institute has also been engaged in working the Government of Maharashtra to design an Outcome Budget covering 12 key government departments in an attempt to link public expenditure to definitive positive outcomes.

The TISS has actively sought to build fruitful collaborations and linkages, both within and outside India, most notably with the London School of Economics, the National Law School of India University, Bangalore and other universities and institutions in India and abroad.

The National Alumni Meet organised earlier this year brought together hundreds of alumni from over the decades and was a long overdue, but decisive step towards enhancing our relationship with our alumni who have distinguished themselves in so many diverse fields, nationally and internationally.

In keeping with our commitment to providing a world class environment for our students and faculty, TISS launched a massive infrastructure development programme across all campuses and took decisive steps in investing substantially in improving our administrative and managerial capacities.

It would be all but impossible for TISS to undertake its work without the support and encouragement we receive from the Government of India, the University Grants Commission, the Government of Maharashtra, and other public agencies for which are most grateful. We also express our thanks to the Tata Trusts, UNDP, UNICEF and to other organisations, institutions and individuals who continue to support our work.

Ladies and Gentlemen, I am privileged to commend to you the Annual Report of the Tata Institute of Social Sciences and call on Mr. R.K. Krishna Kumar, Chairperson of the Governing Board to award the degrees and prizes for the Academic Year 2006–2007.

Thank you.

Re-Imagining Futures: Making Excellence Count

Annual Report 2006–2007

INTRODUCTION

The past year has been a year of change for the Tata Institute of Social Sciences (TISS), one that has seen us act on honest reflection with sincerity of purpose and clear intent — to go beyond becoming an institution of excellence to an institution whose excellence makes a decisive difference in achieving human rights and justice for all. To this end we have been through a period of implementing sweeping changes in our teaching, research, field action and extension programmes, and our administration.

The launch of new M.A. programmes, a new M.Phil.–Ph.D. programme, and the Diploma programmes in Andaman & Nicobar Islands and in Ladakh have been the academic highpoints of the last year. We have successfully implemented reformulated M.A. programmes in Social Work, Human Resources Management & Industrial Relations (HRM&IR), Hospital Administration and Health Administration, while giving full attention to the last batch of students graduating with specialisations. Equally important have been the launch of intensive and large-scale campus development initiatives at both the Mumbai and Tuljapur campuses of TISS.

HIGHLIGHTS OF 2006–2007

In our pursuit of making TISS an institution whose excellence contributes to national development, we convened the first-ever meeting of Vice-Chancellors from Jharkhand, Chhattisgarh and Orissa to initiate a process of releasing a new collective synergy to better understand and respond to the substantial challenges of development-related conflicts that haunt the people, in particular the indigenous populations of this region. In keeping with the same commitment, a scoping mission to identify the role that TISS can play in the North-Eastern region of India was also launched. The deputing of a full-time faculty member to Guwahati is but a first step towards TISS seeking to learn from and contribute its own experience and expertise to institutions working to address the significant challenges of development and conflict faced by the people of the region.

In keeping with our commitment to learn from and take knowledge to peoples on the geo-political margins, we are in the process of strengthening and upgrading our Diploma Programmes in Sustainable Development in the Andaman & Nicobar Islands and in Ladakh. The TISS, with support from International Centre for Integrated Mountain Development and International Development Research Centre is playing a key facilitating role in developing the first ever inter-university Master's Programme in Sustainable Mountain Development bringing together universities from across the Greater Himalayan region, including Afghanistan, Pakistan, India, Nepal and China. The sustained teaching, research and field-action engagement in Andaman & Nicobar Islands, Ladakh and Marathwada (through our Rural Campus in Tuljapur) is intended to build a critical knowledge base on sustainable development in island, cold desert and semi-arid ecosystems.

As an institution committed to the democratisation of all aspects of the polity, the TISS has been proud to commit itself to several key initiatives in this regard over the last year. With support from the UNICEF, the TISS is developing a State Resource Network on Micro-Planning to support and institutionalise peoples' planning across Maharashtra through building capacities of communities and the state in micro-planning. The primary objective of this exercise is to enable both the people and the State to re-imagine development as a participatory process, based on the fundamental premise that people have a knowledge base borne out of experience. This initiative will endeavour to achieve the widespread diffusion of capacities to ensure processes of facilitation and use of participatory tools to enable communities to better analyse and assess local realities; identify and prioritise the problems to be addressed; and collectively develop action plans to address the problems and issues of the community.

As an institution committed to building a more accountable, transparent and responsive state, the TISS has been engaged in working with the Government of Maharashtra (GoM) to design an Outcome Budget covering 12 key government departments (Agriculture, Employment, Home, Housing, Public Health, Public Works, Rural Development, Sanitation, School Education, Social Justice, Tribal Development, Water Supply, and Women & Child). The Outcome Budget initiative is an attempt to link public expenditure to definitive positive outcomes rather than mere outputs so as to establish the relationship between financial allocation, the actual expenditures, and the eventual outcomes of that expenditure. The first-ever initiative on such a scale in India, the project has covered 32 different government schemes across the state and has generated significant knowledge and experience for both the TISS and the GoM, not only in ensuring effective budgetary allocation and planning and monitoring actual expenditure, but also in identifying key roadblocks and hurdles in achieving the desired outcomes of financial expenditure.

In our continued quest to make our excellence count, we look forward to the launch in the coming academic year of three new Master's programmes in Disaster Management; Globalisation and Labour; and Social Entrepreneurship. As their very names suggest these programmes, at the cutting edge of multi-disciplinarity, are designed to develop professionals with the capacities to engage with some of the most critical issues of our time. Ever conscious of the need to reach out to new constituencies of learners, we are all set to deliver a host of new short-term academic and training programmes in diverse areas such as Human Development and Accountability, Media and Cultural Studies, Psychosocial Care in Disasters, and Financial Management, to name but a few.

We are all only too aware of the fact that we have a lot to learn from other institutions and people. Over the last year, TISS has actively sought to build fruitful collaborations and linkages, both within and outside India. The TISS is on the verge of inking a substantial research and teaching collaboration with the London School of Economics covering social sciences and health. The prestigious National Law School of India University and TISS will soon launch a joint Post-Graduate Diploma in Child Rights. Over the last year, TISS has also worked actively within a global network of universities (PHREE-Way) to develop a strong curriculum on disaster management. As part of the British Council's DELPHE Programme, the TISS is linking up with three prominent universities in the United Kingdom (Warwick, York and London Metropolitan) to develop joint teaching and research on gender and women's studies.

It goes without saying that the wealth of a university are its students and its greatest legacy the alumni. For only the second time in its history, the TISS organised a National Alumni Meet in Mumbai bringing together hundreds of alumni from over the decades and across and outside the country together. The two-day meeting was a long overdue, but first step towards enhancing our relationship with our alumni who have distinguished themselves in so many diverse fields, nationally and internationally. We are now in the process of developing and institutionalising the alumni network to enable us to benefit from and contribute to the growth and development of our alumni and, thereby, our institute.

In keeping with our commitment to providing an enabling and world class environment for our students and faculty, the TISS has launched a massive infrastructure development programme across all campuses. Over the last year, TISS also took decisive steps in investing substantially in improving our administrative and managerial capacities through engaging in the development of new technological solutions and initiating long-pending investment in the strategic deployment and development of our administrative human resources. Significant efforts were initiated to enhance the quality of working conditions of our administrative and service staff, who are an indispensable part of the TISS community.

NEW TEACHING PROGRAMMES

M.Sc./M.A. in Disaster Management

The aim of the Master's Degree programme in Disaster Management is to enhance knowledge, capacities, skills and perspective on responding to disasters. While enabling an understanding of disasters from the vantage point of science and technology in prediction, mitigation and response, the programme will also foster a critical and reflective appreciation of current debates in disaster management within the framework of social and environmental justice, state and civil society dynamics, conflicts and displacement, development and globalisation. The unique features of the programme include a focus on people-centred disaster management; one year of intensive contact classes with field exposure and internships; options to work off campus engaged in internship and research during the second year; research as a compulsory component; and multi-level multi-exit mode providing options for the students to secure a certificate/diploma/master's in disaster management.

M.A. in Globalisation and Labour

The onslaught of globalisation and liberalisation has been causing major changes in the lives of the people, especially in developing countries and the working class in particular. It is necessary to equip people engaged in mass-based organisations such as trade unions, cooperatives and other membership-based organisations with adequate knowledge at the theoretical, conceptual and empirical levels so that they can interrogate these processes and take stands that are realistic. The M.A. programme in Globalisation and Labour attempts to undertake this task. This course will provide a framework to understand the diversity of experiences of globalisation and its impact on work and labour. There will be an emphasis on comprehending the implications of globalisation and labour on economically and socially marginalised sections and will bring out the complexities of the same in forms of mobilisation, protest and resistance. The course content will provide both theoretical analysis as well as empirical studies. This course is meant primarily for trade unionists and activists of membership-based organisations (such as cooperatives and self-help groups) from Asian countries.

M.A. in Social Entrepreneurship

The main objective of the M.A. in Social Entrepreneurship programme is to build future change leaders who can create enterprises with a social purpose, thus generating wealth to enhance livelihood and sustainable development. The programme will draw from the fields of business, finance, economics, society, ethics, innovation and entrepreneurship. It will also focus on development of profit and non-profit organisations and their structures, decision-making, management and leadership development. On successful completion of the two-year programme, the candidates are expected to get absorbed in the fast-growing profit and non-profit entrepreneurial sectors.

Post-Graduate Diploma in Media and Cultural Studies

The Centre for Media and Cultural Studies will offer a one-year post-graduate Diploma in Media and Cultural Studies. This programme aims at honing the skills of media production (with a focus on video) and research within a framework that enables the development of a critical perspective on media, culture and society. It will enable the creation of a lively group of young media 'thinking do-ers' and 'doing thinkers' who could then choose to branch out into a diverse range of work or educational situations.

Post-Graduate Diploma in Psychosocial Care in Disaster Situations

The Jamsetji Tata Centre for Disaster Management will offer a one-year diploma programme on Psychosocial Care in Disaster Situations. Creating a pool of trained human resources in psychosocial care has become important and urgent given the frequency and intensity of natural and human-made disasters occurring in India and other countries in South Asia. This programme aims at equipping participants to gain capacity to develop and implement psychosocial interventions that are culture-specific, adaptable and effective.

RESEARCH AND PUBLICATIONS

One of the most significant steps taken in the year gone by has been the establishment of the Office of the Dean of Research and Development. The need to achieve a strategic focus in terms of current research as well as developing an agenda for future knowledge development is the primary mandate of this office. There is a clear acknowledgement that building a culture of research that promotes both problem-oriented and curiosity driven/theoretical research needs appropriate mechanisms and facilitation, whether in terms of publications or management of research projects. Even while looking at the future, we need to ensure that the best possible institutional support and infrastructure is extended to our faculty and research scholars and the Dean, Research and Development, has drawn up a strategy paper to ensure that TISS will address the above issues.

The thrust of the varied research projects undertaken last year by TISS has been to generate knowledge that contributes to empowerment and social transformation. Over the last year TISS initiated, took forward and/or completed research projects on a number of issues in areas such as health, education, rural development, employability, labour issues, human rights, sustainable development, social work, etc.

The Tata Institute of Social Sciences undertook 90 research and documentation projects (Appendix 1) in 2006-2007 of which 13 were across Schools/Centres. Thirty-seven projects were initiated this year in the following areas:

Others: Appreciative Intelligence and Entrepreneurial Leadership; A Theory does not Make a Difference in Orientalism: Social Science and Question of Development in the Orient; Banking Practices in Rural and Semi-urban Maharashtra; Community Needs Assessment: Study for ACC Bargarh, Orissa; Framing the Development Debate: The Case of Farmers' Suicide in India; and State Resource Network for Deepening Democracy Project.

Publications

Faculty members of the Institute publish their research findings in national and international academic journals and books. They also publish book reviews, conference and seminar reports, and articles in newsletters. In 2006–2007, 51 faculty members had publications to their credit. These include 6 authored/edited volumes, 69 articles in journals and books, and 38 other publications (Appendix 2).

The academic year 2006–2007 has laid significant foundation for enhancing publication of books and papers significantly. The TISS-Adecco Joint Research Programme on Economy and Labour Market; London School of Economics–TISS collaboration on Research in Social Sciences and Health; TISS–EPW Roundtables; South Asia Universities Consortium on Integrated Water Resources Management; sustainable development initiatives in Andaman, Ladakh and Marathwada, and creation of the Office of Research and Development to nurture research and publications will significantly increase our publications output in 2007–2008. A newly created and functioning Project Management Cell with accompanying ERP solution will significantly enhance efficient administration research projects.

FIELD ACTION

Field Action Projects (FAPs) have been an integral part of the Institute's activities since its inception in 1936. These FAPs contribute to generating knowledge for teaching, allow for testing of theories in field practice and provide opportunities for training students in innovative work. The FAPs address a wide range of issues with a broad goal of a more equal and just society, through capacity-building, empowering people to exercise more informed choice, and secure their rights. The total numbers of FAPs currently implemented are 18, in the areas of children and youth, criminal justice, dalit and tribal issues, health, HIV/AIDS, human rights, sustainable development and women (Appendix 3).

Our concern with the realities and challenges of the far-flung hinterlands and borderlands of India has not distracted us from what confronts us everyday on the streets just outside the very gates of TISS — homelessness, destitution and beggary. Koshish, a new FAP of TISS, aims to develop a more comprehensive and meaningful response to homelessness than locking the destitute and beggars away. The key objectives of the project are to challenge and end the criminalisation of poverty and homelessness, and address the challenges of appropriate institutional care for the vulnerable destitute. The project has received a seed grant from Action Aid and is supported by the Department of Women and Child Development, GoM. A fruitful partnership with the GoM and the Police is opening up new possibilities in attempting to secure justice for this much visible, yet long neglected section of our population.

TRAINING AND EXTENSION

TISS Response to Disasters: Floods

The monsoons of 2006 brought unusually high rainfall to several states in the country. This resulted in severe flooding in hundreds of villages in Maharashtra and Rajasthan. In keeping with the Institute's tradition, a student and faculty volunteer team involved themselves in relief work. This work was coordinated by the Jamsetji Tata Centre for Disaster Management. In August 2006, TISS volunteers provided food grains, medicines and clothes to the flood-affected people living in more remote tribal areas in Chimalkhedi (in Maharashtra), where little relief aid had reached from the government. The TISS volunteers, along with local workers, participated in the relief work, conducted rapid surveys, wrote letters and petitions to government officials, among other tasks. Torches, food grains, utensils, diesel for transportation, plastic sacks and footwear were supplied in Hansa Wadi and other villages, in consultation with local volunteers and activists. Rapid assessments in Chimalkhedi, Sindhuri, and Dhankhedi villages were conducted to assess the efficacy of the public distribution system (PDS), and the extent of malnutrition. Students also video documented the situation of submergence and shared the same with state officials.

Flood relief work was also carried out in Barmer district of western Rajasthan, a drought-affected area for the last 10 years. However, excessive rain in July 2006 aggravated the deprivations, instead of relieving the people in the area. Relief work was carried out by the TISS team during October and November 2006 in collaboration with Mahila Mandal Barmer Agor (MMBA), a voluntary organisation. The TISS volunteer team visited three Panchayat areas in Barmer district — Malwa, Mundho ki Dhani and Antra. Based on the discussion with the flood-affected families, issues that needed immediate attention were prioritised. Since most of the affected families were in dire need of medical attention, health camps were organised in 5 villages. The TISS volunteer team was assisted by a doctor and volunteers of the MMBA, and with the coordination of public health officials. Some of the most vulnerable were provided some livelihood support. The TISS and MMBA also undertook advocacy efforts at the district level, where 4 major issues for immediate concerted action by the state — health, water, PDS, and education — were highlighted. Various officers at the district level, including the Collector, were met and informed of the needs of the affected people.

Seminars, Conferences, Workshops and Training Programmes

Faculty members across Schools and Centres regularly conduct seminars, conferences, workshops and training programmes with participants drawn from various disciplines and sections of society. During 2006–2007, 90 programmes were organised by 62 faculty members, of which 13 programmes were jointly organised by faculty from two or more Schools/Centres (Appendix 4). A glance at the range of topics covered by our programmes reveal a high component of programmes on capacity-building, curriculum review and development, and training of trainers.

The Institute's faculty members also regularly participate in international, national and regional level seminars, conferences, workshops and training programmes as paper presenters, resource persons, discussants, chairpersons of sessions, special invitees or experts. This year, 72 faculty members participated in 72 international level programmes and presented 38 papers; and 270 national, regional or local level programmes, where they presented 71 papers (Appendix 5).

Executive Committee Memberships

Fifty-eight members of the Institute's faculty served on 255 executive committees of professional bodies and governmental organisations and NGOs in 2006-2007 (Appendix 6). The TISS faculty members brought informed high quality knowledge input to decision-making bodies of government ministries and departments, non-governmental organisations, and industries and institutions. The TISS faculty also served in UGC committees to review/develop/audit curriculum and administration of universities and institutions spread across the country.

KNOWLEDGE AND LEARNING RESOURCES

Library

The Sir Dorabji Tata Memorial Library (SDTML) has a specialised collection of resources, taking into consideration the course contents and research needs of all the departments and units of the Institute. It has a stock of about 1,02,958 volumes, 1,600 audio-visual documents, and subscribes to over 249 learned journals. The major CD-ROM database collections include ProQuest, Wilson Social Science Abstract, and Popline.

The state-of-the-art SDTML has been identified by UGC as one of its nodal centres for UGC-INFONET. Under this network, the Library has seamless access to thousands of renowned electronic journals in the field of social sciences. Some of the online databases presently available for access are Blackwell, Springer Link, J-Gate, Cambridge Journals Online, and Encyclopaedia Britannica. The SDTML has set up a separate unit for the visually impaired students where 2 dedicated computers with JAWS software and Galileo Reading System have been installed. The SDTML remains open until 11.00 p.m. on all working days, and online library services are available 24x7.

Technological Resources

Wireless internet access or Wi-Fi is available in the classrooms as well as strategic gathering locations around the Institute like the Main Quadrangle, Dining Hall, Guest House, etc. Heavy-duty centralised and networked printers are available on all the floors for students, teachers, project and administrative staff.

All the hostels are provided with computer at a ratio of 1:20 in the lounges and the hostel rooms have Internet connection points where computers/laptops can be plugged in for instant connectivity. The lab computers are loaded with the latest software for quantitative and qualitative research. The Institute has also upgraded the licenses to the latest software such as Windows Vista, Office 2007, SPSS 15.0, Trend Micro, etc. Software for the visually challenged is also available as well as a Braille printer to enable the visually challenged students to take printouts of their class notes, examination question papers, etc.

Publications

The flagship publication of the Institute, The Indian Journal of Social Work, entered its 68th year of uninterrupted publishing. Six issues were published this year, including three special issues on 'Sexuality in India (Part 2)', 'Social Research Methods: Persistent Issues and Emergent Trends', and 'Dalits and Development: A Reappraisal'.

STUDENTS

Enrolment

Student enrolment for the year 2006–2007 totalled 696 (Appendix 7). These students came from 31 States and Union Territories of India and two foreign countries. The B.A. in Social Work programme had 59 students enrolled, while the Master's degree programmes had a total enrolment of 437 students. The M.Phil. programme had 22 students on its roll and the Ph.D. programme 49. The Diploma and Certificate programme students numbered 129. The student enrolment will increase substantially in 2007–2008 with the introduction of 3 new master's programmes and several diploma and certificate programmes.

Field Work

Field work provides students with a setting wherein they can learn from doing. This is an important component of the teaching programmes at the Institute. Students of all the Master's degree programmes in Social Work, Personnel Management and Industrial Relations (PM & IR)/HRM & LR, Health Administration and Hospital Administration are placed for field work in various agencies. During this period, students are provided with intensive practical training in the activities of the organisations they are placed in (Appendix 8).

The B.A. Social Work students were placed in 19 agencies, mostly village communities. The M.A. Social Work students (both first and second year) were placed in 93 agencies; the PM & IR)/HRM & LR students were placed in 57 agencies; and the M.H.A. (Health and Hospital) students were placed in 86 agencies for their internships. The students of the Diploma programme in Hospital Administration were placed in 10 agencies for their internships, while the students of the Certificate in Social Work programme were placed in 5 agencies.

Rural Practicum

The Rural Practicum is a theme-based field work exposure for the first year students of M.A. in Social Work. The students are placed with organisations across the country for two weeks at the end of the second semester. This year, the 123 junior Social Work students were placed with 19 organisations located in the states of Andhra Pradesh, Bihar, Gujarat, Jharkhand, Karnataka, Kerala, Madhya Pradesh, Maharashtra, Meghalaya, Orissa, and Rajasthan. The Rural Practicum exercise, which began in December 2006 with orientation and planning sessions for the students, will conclude with a workshop in July 2007.

Study Tour

The Study Tour is organised for the second year students of M.A. in Social Work at the end of the third semester. These tours help the students to gain an overall understanding of the scope and range of work in their field of specialisation. Students get to interact with stakeholders at different levels offering rich insights, experiences and knowledge to the students. Depending on their specialisation, the students visited various organisations in different parts of the country.

Research Projects

The research project at the Master's level offers students the opportunity to plan and conduct original investigation in an area of study with the guidance of a faculty member. While a research project is compulsory for Master's students of Health Administration, it is optional for the students of PM & IR)/HRM & LR, Health Administration, and Social Work. In 2006-2007, 46 students of M.A. Social Work, 14 of M.A. PM & IR 11 students of Health Administration, and 7 Hospital Administration undertook research projects under the guidance of 43 faculty members (Appendix 9).

The School of Social Work set up a Research Committee to coordinate and monitor Research Projects undertaken by the students of the revised M.A. in Social Work degree programme. The objectives of this academic component are to enable students to learn how to conceptualise, design and implement a field-based research study, and locate the same within the field of social work. The main functions of the Research Committee are to facilitate students undertake research projects; match students to guides on the basis of their thematic topics; coordinate and monitor the research process over the 2-year degree programme; and facilitate the process whereby the required inputs are provided to the research students, as well as the process of evaluation of their projects. During this first academic year of the revised M.A. in Social Work programme, 72 students have opted for the Research Project. They are now at the stage of finalising their research proposals and preparing for data collection. The topics they have identified for research cover a wide range of concerns pertaining to the development of marginalised and disadvantaged people.

M.Phil. and Ph.D. Seminars

Scholars of the M.Phil. and Ph.D. programmes are required to present their research proposals, self-study papers, and research papers in seminars. This year, 31 such presentations were made (Appendix 10).

Students' Union

The year 2006–2007 saw the Students' Union working to address student concerns in a proactive and facilitative manner. The Union initiatives bore fruit in extending Library and Computer Centre timings; forming a Crisis Management Cell; and facilitating the opening of a canteen on the Campus. The Union also facilitated getting banks to the Institute Campus for exploring student loans and was very active in getting a good insurance policy for the students.

The Union felicitated the support staff of TISS from the security and the Dining Hall on Independence Day. Other routine activities of the Union included Sports Day, QuinTISSence: the TISS Students' Festival, and various other cultural programmes.

PM & IR Forum and Clubs

The PM & IR Forum is a students' body that is committed to the cause of knowledge dissemination among the students through industry interfacing and participatory activities. This year, 8 professionals from the corporate world were invited to deliver talks on topics like 'Global HR Management', 'International Compensation', 'Reward Management', 'Expatriate Compensation', etc. The PM & IR Clubs — Marketing Club, Finance Club, HR Club, Consult Club and Arbit Club — are essentially a platform for the PM & IR students to participate in the specific areas of interests.

Social Work Students' Forum

The Social Work Students Forum (SWSF), the social work students' body of the Institute, provides an opportunity for the students to exchange views and debate on myriad issues of social concern. This year the SWSF organised theme-based workshops with 'Common Interest Groups' of students. They also initiated 'Mohalla Bolta Hai', a space for social work students to express opinions or raise concerns on contemporary social issues.

Student Seminars

Parallel to the main event was screening of relevant films, an alumni dinner, and an NGO mela, which showcased creative products made by different organisations. ### International Students Office

The International Students Office (ISO) at TISS was formally established in February 2006 as a part of the larger process of restructuring at the Institute. The main objectives of the ISO are to facilitate and enhance the global visibility and profile of TISS; to develop, coordinate and strengthen international linkages; and to assist and help international students in all their academic pursuits. Given the credibility and status that the Institute has achieved over the years, and coupled with the current Indian context, there is a tremendous scope for the Study in India and Study Abroad Programmes. We are mainly aiming at hosting international students in TISS, coming on exchange — either for customised courses in field work and theme-based modules — along with enrolment in our regular courses. This will, in turn, open up opportunities for our students to get a global exposure and study in foreign universities through a short-term exchange. Faculty exchange and research collaborations form equally important activities of the ISO.

During 2006–2007, we have received a large number of academic delegations from universities across the world to explore the common interest areas for collaborations. MoUs have been signed with some of these Universities such as Clemson University, Washington University, St. Louis, and James Madison University (USA); Charles Sturt University (Australia); Caritas College (Czech Republic); Sciences Po at Paris and Lille (France); and Tel Aviv University, Israel.

In terms of students’ exchanges, we have already planned short-term programmes for more than 30 students so far and they will be in TISS during the forthcoming academic year. The variety of assignments they would be engaged in includes post-doctoral research, graduate students research, customised courses of few weeks to a semester, and field work placements. More than 18 students from different countries have applied for regular admissions in our post-graduate programmes.

The procedures and scope of work of the ISO is evolving over a period of time and we hope to achieve the target of hosting a large number of international students and faculty across the world in the next few years.

Counselling Services

The TISS provides counselling services for its students and staff. Three professionally trained counsellors visit the campus to offer guidance and counselling to students. The free counselling services has grown and developed over the last five years; from being a service that provided a weekly/bi-weekly contact, it has progressed to a regular daily service. This service is available to students three hours daily, six days a week. The counsellors addressed academic, crisis and personal issues.

The academic programme schedule of 2006–2007 provided prescribed time for yoga, aerobics and indoor recreation services to the students. The level of attendance in yoga and aerobics is indicated in the final grade certificate given to the graduating students.

ALUMNI

The National Alumni Meet opened with a tremendous sense of nostalgia on February 10, 2007. A two-day affair, more than 500 Alumni came to the institute from across departments, specialisations and batches. The Alumni Meet was a culmination of the efforts made by the Institute in the past two years to re-connect with its alumni. Its conception occurred with the Students' Union putting it on their annual agenda, and the sustained efforts of a critical mass of student, faculty and administrative staff.

The sessions during the Meet included 'A Walk Down Memory Lane', TISS-Alumni Interface, and School-wise meetings with faculty. During these sessions the need for the Alumni to contribute in ways other than economical, to the Institute was stressed. The Alumni identified concerns that they felt most strongly about and came up with suggestions in terms of what needs to be done and how TISS can do something about it. The increasing gap between the haves and the have-nots, electoral reforms, rights of the disabled people, cause of Dalits and Adivasis were some of the issues that were discussed. In the School-wise meetings, the Alumni gave feedback of the courses, their content and also suggestions on having a better curriculum in place.

As an outcome of the Alumni Meet, the Institute made a commitment to the setting up of an Alumni Office as a part of the Office of Student Affairs, with a full-time Alumni Affairs Officer.

CONCLUSION

The academic year 2006–2007 has been a year of far reaching changes in TISS. We are, however, only all too aware that the events of the world are far ahead of us. Sustainable and equitable solutions to poverty continue to prove elusive, conflict, violence and religious intolerance continue to rear their ugly heads time and again threatening any substantial progress in building social solidarity and peace — a prerequisite for meaningful human development

As an institution, TISS cannot and will not remain isolated in its pursuit of excellence in knowledge; we have to and will strive to make our excellence count, to make a difference to our world through our work not just explain or understand it.
